

Parque Warner

Madrid, Spain

Parque Warner Madrid, previously known as Warner Bros Park Madrid, is one of the most vanguard parks in Europe, especially regarding its rides, many of which are unique in Europe. The park is divided into five zones themed on scenes from films produced by Warner Brothers and various areas in the United States like Hollywood, California and New York.

FCC, Dragados, Necso, ACS
and Ferrovial

ACCIONA Producciones y Diseño actively participated in the construction of all the zones in the park dedicated to the world of film and the most famous movie characters from Warner studios. Of special mention is the ride called “La Aventura del Río Bravo”, where APD created a spectacular 6,000 m² mountain made of artificial rock.

The works of theming in each zone were done in situ from metallic structures later gunned with thixotropic mortar (gray cement, lime, limestone and silicon sand, mixed with mineral additives and organic thixotropanes), which allow for a perfect molding to produce and reproduce any architectonic illusion, as much for interiors as for exteriors, and high-density polyurethane to cover the cornices.

In Bottrop, Germany, APD undertook the enlargement of the theme park for Warner Bros as the direct client.
